

Authoring for the 21st century.

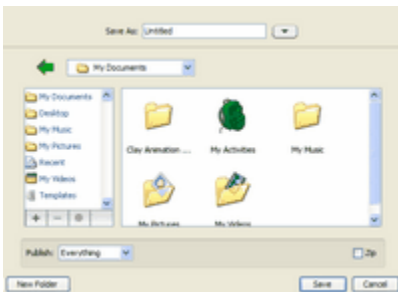

PUBLISH AS HTML

You can publish your project as HTML to your computer. This creates all the Web pages, and collects all your resources so that you can upload them to a Web server.

Click the Publish button on the toolbar and choose HTML.

You will see the Save as HTML dialog.

Locate the place where you want to publish the project.

Type a name for the project in the Save As field. This will be the name of the folder that contains all of the files in your project.

Click the Save button.

Your project will be published to your computer.

To view your site, hide Share. Find the folder containing your published site and open it.

You will see the contents of your site.

The file called index is the first page in your site. The folder called media contains all of your resources.

Double-click the index.html file to view your site in a browser.

Move the entire site folder to your Web server.
